This was so much fun! I loved all the screens and lights. The price was a bit expensive for what I got, but it was nice to enjoy the walk. The night before we were going (you have to choose a specific date and that's it), I heard my friends were overcrowded because a lot of people come between 5 and 8, leading to ridiculous waiting times. We didn't have this problem because it was raining the whole time. There were no people there. While the performances were enjoyable, the rain took the experience. Everything was muddy and slippery tracks that were laid and helped a little, so this was appreciated. I don't think it was worth an expensive ticket or despite walking. After catching train 4, you still need to take the bus, which was super shallow. We ended up picking up $60 from Uber (and 40 minutes of traffic). Split 6 pessoas, Valio totalmente pena. Eu diria que o Uber de lá foi a única coisa que valeu a pena para este festival. Ouvei dizer que agora eles cronometraram os ingressos para aliviar a multidão e os longos tempos de espera, mas eu ainda diria que economize seu tempo e dinheiro....
